MOUNT ANGEL COLLEGE AND SEMINARY

Historical.

Mount Angel College, conducted by the Benedictine Fathers, was founded in the year 1887, by the Very Rev. Adelhelm Odermatt, O. S. B., with the approbation of His Grace, Most Rev. Archbishop Wm. H. Gross, D. D. By act of the legislature the institution was granted a charter, with power of conferring the usual academic honors. Rev. Father Barnabas Held, O. S. B., was appointed Director of the school, and the rapid increase of students soon necessitated the erection of a more spacious building.

The Seminary was erected in the following year, and placed in charge of the Rev. Father Dominic, O. S. B.

On May 3, 1892, the Monastery, the old College, and the Seminary buildings were destroyed by fire. Although a heavy loss, this misfortune by no means arrested the progress of the school.

The new College is situated on the crest of Mt. Angel, a beautiful, gently sloping hill, which rises to a height of about 300 feet above the surrounding fertile plain, which is diversified by fields, meadows, groves and orchards. Mt. Angel is 40 miles south of Portland, and 14 miles northeast of Salem. It affords a magnificent view of the Willamette Valley, the snow-capped mountains of Oregon and Washington on the north, the long chain of the Cascade Range on the east, the Coast Range on the west, and the Waldo Hills with St. Mary's Peak on the south.

Accessibility.

The Springfield branch of the Southern Pacific Railroad passes through the town of Mount Angel, the station being one mile and a half from the College. It connects with the main line at Woodburn, about five miles north of Mount Angel. Visitors from Portland may purchase their tickets direct to Mount Angel ($1.10), but have to change cars at Woodburn.

Time Schedule of R. R. Trains.

There is a large and neat hotel at Mount Angel for the accommodation of visitors and strangers.

Accommodations and Buildings.

The College and Seminary are built entirely of native grey stone. They afford most comfortable accommodations for two hundred and fifty students. The buildings are fitted throughout with the most approved system of sanitary plumbing, heating and ventilation, which, together with the natural advantages of location, assure the best possible conditions as to the health and comfort of the students.

The Infirmary,

Is conveniently arranged for the care and comfort of the sick. Two cheerful rooms, 27 feet square, with attendants' room between, are provided with the necessary appliances. Medical attendance and medicines at physician's charges.

The Dormitories,

Of which there are two, are in charge of the Benedictine Sisters, and are kept in excellent condition. Each student is provided with a neat and comfortable single bed, wardrobe, and toilet case. Sixty individual rooms are at the disposal of senior students who desire more comfort and better facilities for study than are provided by the ordinary dormitory and study hall accommodations. For single rooms an extra charge of fifty dollars per year is made. Double rooms for the accommodation of two brothers may be had for eighty dollars a year.

The Dining Hall

Is large, cheerful, and decorated with suitable paintings. The meals are substantial and plentiful, most of the supplies for the table are furnished fresh from the large farm attached to the Benedictine Monastery. Sisters have charge of the kitchen. The excellent and abundant fare, wholesome though not dainty, the scrupulous cleanliness, the sanitary conditions prevailing throughout, in the kitchen as well as in the dining hall, have called forth words of praise from almost every visitor to the institution. In fact, nothing has been left undone to secure the comfort and well-being of the students.

Museum of Natural History.

Realizing the usefulness or almost necessity of collections of specimens of Natural History for effective class work, especially in the study of natural sciences, we have always been anxious to collect and preserve whatever might prove useful. A spacious room in the new College building has been set aside for our museum. Show cases, allowing a full display of the material already collected, have been installed and contain rocks, minerals, ores, geological specimens, bird eggs and nests, insects, marine shells, Indian curios and implements, etc. The institution is also in possession of an herbarium, comprising approximately 1500 plants, in about equal numbers from Oregon, the Atlantic States, and Germany.

We shall feel greatly obliged for any donation of real value, such as skins, minerals, rocks, ores, petrifications, fossils, etc. We gratefully acknowledge the following gifts received during the past year. From Bro. Boniface, O. S. B., ores, rocks and minerals from Michigan and Canada; Bro. Michael, O. S. B., rocks and minerals from Pennsylvania and Maine; Rev. F. Charles, O. S. B., Clayoquat, B. C., Indian baskets and implements; Rev. A. Hillebrand, Oregon City, a rib and a vertebra of the whale; Rev. F. Heinrich, Baker City, a nugget of placer gold; Mr. Joe Keil, Milwaukie, Ore., many different kinds of eggs of Oregon birds; Mr. J. J. Murphy, Butte, Mont., minerals and ores from Montana; Mr. J. G. Crawford, Albany, Ore., miocene fossils from the Santiam River; many others, various objects.

The Physical Laboratory.

The Physical Cabinet is well furnished with all the appliances necessary for a thorough practical and theoretical knowledge of this ever progressing science. Hence, within the last few years the faculty has purchased a large number of very valuable instruments, such as dynamos, motors, coils, X-ray apparatus, models of engines, microscopes, phonographs, etc., all of which insure the practical illustration of the principles of physics, mechanics and electrical engineering.

The Auditorium.

This magnificent assembly hall, second to none in the educational institutes of the Northwest, is used for the meetings of the various societies and clubs, as well as for all entertainments. It has a seating capacity of eight hundred, is well lighted and provided with a modern, inclined stage equipped with sets of beautiful scenery painted by a renowned artist from Munich, Kaulbach by name.

The Gymnasium.

While using all diligence to afford a true, solid moral and intellectual education, Mount Angel College deems it also of great importance not to neglect bodily exercise. The Gymnasium, 129x60 feet, contains, besides large departments for senior and junior students, a handball alley, a bowling alley, a billard room, reading rooms, etc. It is needless to say that it is provided with all the appliances necessary for physical training. The playgrounds, now in course of construction, will be extensive, and equal to any in the State. They will contain baseball grounds, lawn tennis and croquet courts, and in fact everything that could be desired to furnish amusement as well as healthful bodily exercise so necessary for the proper development of mind and body.

Football will not be encouraged.

Mental Training.

The institution has two libraries, one of which is in the college and for the special use of the students. The works of this library cover nearly every department of science and literature. Besides the standard works of ancient and modern literature, there may be found the Britannica, the American, and Chamber's Encyclopaedias.

The teachers' library proper is especially for the professors and advanced students, and at present contains more than six thousand volumes, a great many of them of rare value. This library is kept in a separate wing.

Music.

The facilities and opportunities which Mount Angel College offers to its pupils for the cultivation of musical talent, are not equaled by any institution in the West. The College is fully equipped with a number of pianos, organs, and, in fact, all modern musical instruments; and the musical library contains the works of most of the great masters of the classic and modern era. Nothing is left undone to inspire the students with a taste for this refined art. The excellent and well-trained band and orchestra, are the best evidences of the efficiency and qualifications of the professors of music.

The Collegian.

A bi-monthly publication under the above name has been inaugurated during the course of the present school year. Its aim is to encourage the students of the institution in their literary efforts. Subscription price per annum, 50 cents. Address, Editor The Collegian, Mount Angel, Ore.

Aids to Moral Training.

The offices of the directors are open daily. Here the students may call and receive such private instructions and advice as they desire, and as may be conducive to their individual improvement.

The religion of the institution is Roman Catholic, although we also admit students professing a different belief, provided they are willing, for the sake of order and uniformity, to be present at the common religious exercises of the students and behave as gentlemen. We do not need to mention that such students are in no wise influenced in regard to religious tenets.

The College Chapel is tastefully decorated. Here all the students attend High Mass and sermon on Sunday forenoon and Vespers and Benediction in the evening.

The Catholic boys are expected to receive the Sacraments once a month. The day of General Communion is the first Friday of each month, a day chosen to instill into the lives of the students devotion to the Sacred Heart.

The junior boys are carefully instructed and prepared for First Holy Communion and the Sacrament of Confirmation.

GENERAL REMARKS AND REGULATIONS.

ADMISSION.—Only students of good moral character will be admitted, and it is therefore desirable that a recommendation from some responsible person be submitted by those desiring admission into the College. No boys under nine years of age are accepted. When a student is admitted to the institution he will, on examination, be assigned to the classes which his previous attainments have qualified him to enter.

Parents or guardians who desire to intrust their sons or wards to our institution, should send them at the beginning of the session; for a long and general experience has taught us that those scholars only who come at the beginning and stay to the end of the term without interruption, show a uniform and satisfactory progress during the course. Those who join the class when it is on the way but too often interfere with the smooth and steady advancement of the whole, and are, for the time being, a drawback to their classmates and an extra burden to their professors. We can not urge this point too strongly; and we would therefore impress on all students the necessity of being on hand when the classwork begins. Their own interest and the progress of the class require an early attendance. Late comers are not to expect that, for their accommodation, their class-fellows should be checked in their progress.

EXAMINATIONS.—Written examinations take place bi-monthly, and are conducted by the respective teachers. Reports, giving accounts of the conduct, application, standing and progress in the different studies, etc., are sent to parents and guardians on application.

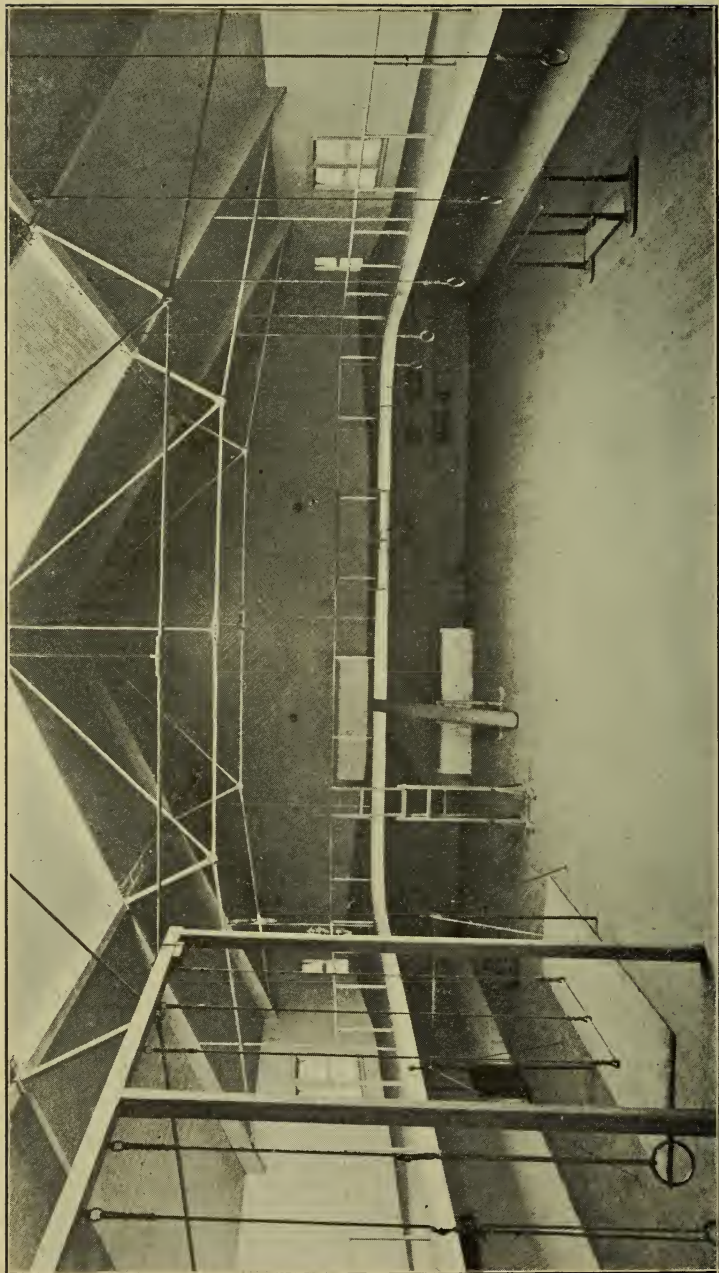

A Roll of Honor is published bi-monthly. It mentions the various studies in which a student has distinguished himself. Eighty-five points out of a maximum of 100 are required to entitle a student to mention on the roll. The Roll of Honor, together with The Collegian, is sent to all parents and guardians.

VACATION.—Students who obtain permission from their parents or guardians, are allowed to visit home during the Christmas and Easter holidays, but they must return in time to resume classes.

In competition for medals awarded at the closing exercises, preference is given to students who have attended the full course, over those who did not come in time.

Parents and friends are most earnestly requested to arrange the time of their visits, so as not to interfere with the classes.

STUDIES.—After the student has decided upon his course of studies, he will be required to attend all the classes belonging to that course, unless different arrangements have been made beforehand. Parents are respectfully reminded that the management of the classes belongs to the authorities of the institution, as the latter generally know best what is to the advantage of the student. We also request that the student should not be withdrawn from school before vacation.

What the Student Should Bring Along.

It is rather difficult to make any specification as to the quality or the quantity of wearing apparel, and parents will generally conform the outfits to the wants and needs of their children, as well as to their own means and conditions.

We shall, however, subjoin a list of articles which the average student will need: Two or three suits of clothes, hat or cap, four or six shirts, collars, cuffs, neckties, towels, napkins, handkerchiefs, stockings, four or six suits of underwear, comb and brush, two pairs of shoes, bathing suit, nightgown. Articles which may be useful are overcoat, umbrella, scarf, etc.

Each student, on entering, is assigned a number, which is marked on all his clothing, etc., by the Sisters, who are in charge of the clothing rooms.

If parents or guardians send packages to students, they should prepay expressage or freight.

Rules of Conduct.

1. Students should at all times be obedient and respectful to the officers and professors of the institution, observe habitual politeness toward each other, and always observe the rules of propriety.

2. Permission must be obtained in the following cases: To leave the College premises, to attend calls from visitors, to absent oneself from the regular exercises, or to do anything out of the daily routine.

3. The places and seats assigned to the students, whether in the study-hall, refectory, chapel or classroom, are not to be changed, unless officers direct otherwise.

4. Students are required to report to the College at once after their arrival at the station, or whenever they return after an absence from Mount Angel. Unnecessary delay in the neighboring towns is looked upon as a serious violation of the rule.

5. Students damaging desks, chairs, windows, walls, or any other property of the College, will be held responsible.

6. All money belonging to juniors must be deposited with the Treasurer and no junior student shall retain money in his possession.

7. Strict silence is to be observed during study and class-hours; and in the dormitory and wash-rooms.

8. Boisterous conduct and running within the buildings not assigned for recreation are at all times forbidden.

9. The use of tobacco is prohibited to all students not of age.

10. Mail, sent or received by juniors is subject to inspection by the President or one appointed by him.

11. When students become aware of the loss of anything, they shall at once notify the President.

12. No branch of study shall be taken up or discontinued, without special permission.

13. The following offenses expose the delinquent to dismissal: Habitual idleness and violation of the rules of the institution; taking articles belonging to others; the use of vile and profane language; any gross immorality and the possession and distribution of immoral publications or pictures; intoxication; procuring or introducing liquors; obstinate refusal to submit to punishment; absence from the College at night without leave; avowed principles of infidelity; expressed contempt or ridicule of religion.

14. Parents or guardians, intending to withdraw their sons or wards from the institution, are requested to inform the President by letter, and settle all accounts beforehand.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The Courses of Study pursued at Mount Angel College and Seminary are the Preparatory, Commercial, Classical, Normal, Scientific, and Theological.

THE PREPARATORY COURSE.

This course is intended for boys who are not sufficiently advanced to enter the Classical or Commercial Course. It comprises the following studies: Christian Doctrine, Bible History, Reading, Grammar, Spelling, Arithmetic, Penmanship, Physiology, U. S. History and Geography.

Catholic boys are obliged to attend the instructions in Christian Doctrine.

We make it a special aim to have all the pupils in the Preparatory Course strictly up to the mark, and proficient in every branch before advancing them to a higher course, as only a complete and thorough knowledge of fundamental studies will produce successful and creditable scholars in the more advanced courses.

The class books in use which are different from those in the public schools of this State are: Benziger's series of Readers; U. S. History by Lawler; Arithmetic by Milne.

THE COMMERCIAL COURSE.

To those who do not wish to avail themselves of a regular classical training, the Commercial Course offers the means of a thorough Commercial and Business Education. This course has always received the most careful attention from the Officers and the Faculty of the College, and nothing has been left undone to give the graduates of this course as complete and perfect a business training as can be obtained in any purely Commercial College.

Believing that a business education comprises something more than a mere knowledge of Bookkeeping, we include in the course, besides Bookkeeping and Commercial Arithmetic, the following studies: Christian Doctrine, English Grammar, Letterwriting, Penmanship, Business Correspondence, and Commercial Law.

The aids and facilities offered to the pupils of the Commercial Course are the very best. We have selected the latest and most approved systems and text-books. Actual business with papers and currency is transacted by the students with the "offices." Advanced students, moreover, carry on a course of Business Practice, sending and receiving orders by mail, and making purchases and sales at the actual market quotations. The course may be finished in one year, provided the student has satisfactorily completed the studies of the Preparatory Course, either at this College or elsewhere. We may safely add, that any studious young man, after completing this course, will find himself in possession of a valuable and practical business education, which will qualify him to take his place in the ranks of business men.

Shorthand and Typewriting.

The popularity of these branches and the fact that they are almost necessary requirements for bookkeepers, reporters, lawyers, and clerks in a business community, has induced us to offer special facilities to such students as desire to perfect themselves in either branch. In shorthand writing, Pernin's system is followed, and in the beginning instruction is given individually to the students by an expert.

Telegraphy.

Though telegraphy is not strictly a part of a business education, yet a practical knowledge of it secures an honorable position for many a young man. A sound theoretical and practical knowledge is imparted by an experienced instructor, provided that a sufficient number of students follow the course.

Drawing.

Instruction is imparted in Free-hand, and in Architectural and Perspective Drawing, from standard models.

REQUISITES FOR DEGREES.

Candidates for degrees must make application to the President of the College, stating the degree to which they aspire, and the branches chosen for examination. After approval of such application, its terms remain unaltered. The average grade required to secure a degree shall be no less than 85 per cent., provided that in no case shall the applicant be graduated who falls below 70 per cent. in any one branch.
